Disability Allowance can be paid for counselling fees if the:

- need for counselling is directly related to your disability.
- full cost of counselling is not met by another agency (eg, Health, Group Special Education, ACC or Child, Youth and Family).
- the counselling is provided by a counsellor who is a member (or an applicant or provisional member) of any of the following organisations:
  - New Zealand Association of Psychotherapists
  - New Zealand Association of Counsellors
  - Aotearoa New Zealand Association of Social Workers Inc
  - New Zealand Christian Counsellors Association
  - Drug and Alcohol Practitioners Association of Aotearoa New Zealand (this only includes registered competent practitioners and associate practitioners – it does not include support workers), or
  - is a Psychologist who holds a current practising certificate, is registered with the New Zealand Psychologists Board, and is registered with either the New Zealand College of Clinical Psychologists or the New Zealand Psychological Society.

Note

- Assistance can also be provided for the cost of transport to counselling if the need for counselling is directly related to your disability.
- Disability Allowance assistance for counselling is limited to a maximum of 10 sessions in the first instance.
- Assistance for up to a further 20 additional counselling sessions can be considered on the recommendation of the person's registered medical practitioner.
- Assistance with counselling is generally limited to a maximum of 30 sessions. This can be extended if a client is assessed as needing further counselling sessions.
